To Whom It May Concern,

Over the course of 16 months, starting in May 2002, Mick Knutson has proven himself a capable and confident software engineer, well versed in J2EE technology and all of the complexity that it entails.

Mick was in a group of 10 software engineers that delivered a 20M CHF project with a total duration of over two years. Several times during the project, requirements changed radically. As memory serves, the portion Mick was working on was specified, respecified, and rewritten no fewer than four times. I greatly appreciate the flexibility shown by Mick, and his ability to execute tactically in an overall context of a strategic project.

If given the opportunity to do so, we would take Mick on for the next major project without a moment of hesitation. Please feel free to contact me at the number above if there are any further questions.

Regards,
